WOMEN HAVE THEIR BOOTH

Are Taking Special Interest in Low Cost of Living Show.

MANY MUSICAL FEATURES

Hawaiian Singers, Green's Band, School Orchestras and Large Singing Societies All on the Program.

The booth of the household efficiency department of the Woman's club, in charge of Mrs. F. J. Burnett, director, and Mrs. C. W. Hayes, president, was opened to the public for the first time Friday. The booth was ready, but many of the articles to be demonstrated had not arrived at the opening time, but everything was in place last night. Mrs. L. C. Gamble demonstrated many household utensils and labor saving devices for the home in this beautiful booth.

Meatless Features.

The musical features of the exposition are more attractive than have been heard at most local expositions in the last several years. Instead of having a loud sounding brass band the exposition management has secured George Green's band. There are several capable soloists connected with this band and there will be singers at various times to help entertain the people. The orchestra is located in the western part of the building
